Commentary Created to celebrate the expulsion of the English from France in 1453 and the subsequent end of the Hundred Years' War (1337-1453), this medal honors the French king, who, after the war, favored a conciliatory policy, pardoning many towns that had sided with the English. Various combinations of obverses and reverses exist. Source: Scher, Stephen K., et al. The Scher Collection of Commemorative Medals. New York and London, 2019.
